K. DEAN LAW

As the Dean Law since January 29, 2009, I initiated or overseen the following developments in the School of Law, among others:

1. Established and streamlined processes and systems

The Office of the Dean in consultation with the School Board established and restructured management and administrative systems in the form of committees and operations for equitable, efficient and effective administration of the School. These committees and processes include the Postgraduate Studies Committee; Mentoring, Internship and Moot Courts; publishing and communication of research; the ICT system. We also restructured the Examinations and Evaluations Committee, and empowered the Academic Programmes Committee (APC).

We improved the coordination and supervision of operations leading to remarkable progress in the following areas: faster and more credible processing of exam results including submission of results and processing of students' queries on exams and results; better and faster processing of payments including payment to lecturers and top-up to non-teaching staff and management (a credible data base has been developed; there is no deficit unlike in the past...); a new students' computer lab has been completed, hot spots are being established, and more lecturers have computers. The School has greater web presence to communicate research and operational information.

2. Mombasa and Kisumu Law campuses

Mombasa and Kisumu Law campuses established. We led in integrating these campuses into the School's and University's administrative system. This includes contributing in interviews for recruitment of lecturers; appointing coordinators and liaison officers; as well as consulting with coordinators as well as School and University officials on the long term, medium term, and day-to-day administration of the Mombasa and Kisumu Law campuses.

3. PhD Research Programme

(See Doctoral Research supervision above)

4. School's academic environment

Promoted an environment that is academically friendly that has facilitated teaching and learning at the School, including keeping the library and computer laboratory operational. This has also been key to enhancing research at the School; doctoral research and colloquia are active.

5. Consultative and collegial management of the School

We have the School community in continued consultation for efficient management of the School; student, staff, and other stakeholders actively participate in relevant activities and decision-making processes.

6. Institutionalizing tradition and change: memory, legacy and the future

As Dean Law, we initiated programmes to institutionalize the rich academic tradition that we have had in the School since it was established in 1970. These include:

- i. Initiated the establishment of the School of Law Alumni Chapter.
- ii. Initiated the process of documenting the traditions of the School towards the publication of a brochure in the context of the 40th Anniversary of the School in 2010, including strategic planning for the future. (The last brochure was published in 2002/2003 under Dean JB Ojwang).
- iii. Facilitated consultations on documentation towards the possible establishment of an Okoth-Ogendo Land Policy Centre in honour of Prof HWO Okoth-Ogendo, a Co-founder of the UoN Law School, and the Guru of Land Law, and Kenyan and African Constitutionalism, who passed on April 24, 2009.
- iv. Ben Sihanya (2009) "Prof HWO Okoth-Ogendo, July 1, 1944 – April 24, 2009: Tribute to the Guru of Land Law and Kenyan and African Constitutionalism," presented at the funeral and burial services; at www.innovativelawyering.com (this forms a Law, Natural Resources Law, and Constitutional Reforms in Kenya in memory and as part of the legacy of Prof Okoth-Ogendo; also archived in JKM Library)

7. Direct Service Provider (DSP) Committee

As Dean we established this Committee that has reviewed and rationalized Direct Service Provider (DSP) payments and related financial transactions in the Law School.

- a) Reviewing and vetting articles and publications of applicants for professional appointments including sitting on interview panels.
- b) References for candidates for professional appointments.
- c) References and mentoring of doctoral candidates.
- d) References for applicants for appointment as judges.

2. History of the mentoring project

Since 1997, I have been recruiting students from the University of Nairobi Law School and other accredited law schools to work as mentees or interns in my academic office and at the legal, research and consultancy firm, Innovative Lawyering and Sihanya Mentoring of which I am the founder and CEO.

Innovative Lawyering later expanded the Mentoring Programme and renamed it "Sihanya Mentoring." Sihanya Mentoring is a programme under Innovative Lawyering and was formally launched on December 13, 2008 at Villa Sihanya, Nyachwinya, Alego, Siaya. The founders are Prof Ben Sihanya and Mrs. Jaki Wasike-Sihanya.

3. Objectives and outcomes of the mentoring project

Sihanya Mentoring has three main interrelated objectives: first, to provide inspiration or motivation to pupils and students, and recent graduates at primary, secondary, tertiary and university levels; second, to provide opportunities through mentoring, guidance and counselling and role modelling on education, innovation; and third, to provide mentoring services on careers in the Kenya through a community of mentors and mentees. The Sihanya Mentoring programme is greatly improving the lives of young Kenyans many of whom do not have role models or career guidance.

We endeavour to inspire and motivate students from all parts of Kenya and help them to develop the necessary skills, knowledge, attitudes and values (SKAVs) to excel. The project is also intended to bring Kenyans together and to provide opportunities, incentives and rewards to young Kenyans who are diligent but have no or limited opportunities or resources.

4. Pilot Projects in mentoring

Pilot projects in this national programme include:

- a. Nyasita Primary School – 2008 - 2014
- b. Kalkada Mixed Secondary School Siaya – 2008 - 2014
- c. University of Nairobi Law School – since 1997 (being consolidated and rolled out).

New projects include awards for excellence in Siaya county, and (the regions of) Kenya.

Projects under Sihanya Mentoring

a. Jaki and Ben Sihanya Award for Excellence (JBSAE)

The project awards diligent and brilliant pupils and students, some of who come from poor backgrounds, under the Jaki and Ben Sihanya Award of Excellence (JBSAE). It is an award to the best two students in English and Maths based on results in the Kenya Certificate of Primary Education (KCPE). The marks scored must exceed 75% in each subject. The best English and Maths pupils will receive Kshs. 10,000/= each.

We have a special category for pupils or persons with disability, where we give awards to high performers. We also take special account of the plight of the girl child. Our goal is to support the girl child in Siaya County achieve better results through mentoring and role modelling. We are doing this through secondment to a sponsoring family, among other strategies.

b. Jaki and Ben Sihanya Award for Excellence (JBSAE - Family Edition)

The Jaki and Ben Sihanya Award for Excellence – Family Edition was formally launched on August 15, 2010. The purpose is to recognize and reward exceptional academic achievement among the families of Fred & Agnes Sihanya and Andrew & Leonora Wasike, respectively.

c. Annual Mentoring and Scholarship Lectures

Sihanya Mentoring organizes motivational and informative lectures or talks to pupils, students and other mentees on various topics that focus on our key objective, which is to provide inspiration, career guidance, counselling and role modelling. This is to promote self-motivation, self-reliance, self-sustenance among pupils and students so that they increasingly take personal responsibility for their future with the help of parents and teachers.

Sihanya Mentoring seeks to mentor and inspire pupils, students and other mentees while taking diversity or national cohesion into consideration.

Through this initiative I have established a community of mentees and mentors and I have mentored, trained and refereed numerous students who have succeeded in the various educational and career paths they have taken. Most of them are in Kenya or have gone overseas to pursue their PhD or masters in Universities such as Stanford, Harvard, Warwick and the London School of Economics (LSE). Numerous mentees are working in Kenya, African countries, or in the US and Europe.
